

My Favorite Memory

Setting the Scene:

MINILAND is the heart of LEGOLAND® Discovery Centers. A dedication to the ultimate expression of the LEGO® art form, it includes reproductions of the major attractions of your local city, all constructed with more than a million LEGO bricks.

When your students visit LEGOLAND Discovery Center, they will use MINILAND as inspiration to build and retell a story about an experience they have had in their city using LEGO bricks as their tools.

Instructions

To prepare your students and get them energized for what's to come, have them think about the important buildings and events in your area they have visited. What are things that students like to do at each place? For example, students might talk about going to a sports event at a local stadium or hearing a concert at an auditorium.

After your students have had time to reflect, ask them to write their three favorite experiences in their city and one detail that made each event so special.

This activity will help students remember the places and experiences they have had, which in turn should aid them in building and telling their stories during the field trip activity.
