

Your Child's LEGOLAND Experience

Parent Tips for LEGOLAND Discovery Center Philadelphia

Developed in partnership with Ruttenberg Autism Center

Plan your day before arriving at LEGOLAND Discover Center Philadelphia

Visit the website to learn information:

You may want to purchase your tickets online prior to your visit if your child has difficulty waiting in long lines.

Decide which activities your child may want to participate in and prioritize these activities.

If your child is interested in taking a LEGO building class,
sign up for a class at the front desk
when you arrive.

Read the information about the 4D movie experience before checking the schedule of movie times.

The pirate ship is a fun activity. You may need to stand nearby if you want to have a better view of your child as they play.

Review the rules for the pirate ship with your child. This may help them to remain safe as they play.

Identify areas where your child can take a break if they need one.

The Coffee Shop is also an area to take a break and maybe have a snack.

Your family can ride the Imagination Express after entering LEGOLAND. This may be a better option if your child is excited to participate in other activities.
